DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, 6-11, 89, and 90 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wilson et al (US 5,165,407).

Wilson teaches a sensor with a necked down region (16) and mounting base (66). Wilson teaches that the thickness of the substrate is within the claimed range. At col. 7, line 21, Wilson teaches that the tube 34 has an inner diameter of 0.30 mm (300 microns) and an outer diameter of 0.67 mm (670 microns). Based on this sizing, the thickness of the substrate material on either side of the notches falls within the narrowest claimed range of 25-350 microns. Wilson also teaches that the sensor is made to fit within a 26 gauge needle which meets each of claims 6-9. (col. 4, line 7)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wilson et al in view of Lord et al (US 5,390,671).

Wilson teaches all the claimed subject matter except for a slotted needle. Lord teaches this element. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use a slotted needle, as does Lord, in order to allow removal of the sensor from the needle and vice versa as taught by Lord.

Claims 12 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wilson in view of Schulman et al (US 6,256,937).

Wilson teaches all the claimed subject matter (including a reference electrode 18) except for electrodes on multiple surfaces of the substrate. Schulman teaches having electrodes on multiple surfaces. (col. 11, lines 5-9) It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide Wilson with electrodes on multiple sides to permit multiple sensing capabilities and ease of manufacture.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 27 October 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argued that the notches in Wilson expose the electrode and therefore do not meet claim 1 as amended, which requires that the electrode not be exposed by the notch. However, the electrode of Wilson is not exposed because it is coated with protective layer 24.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
